

NATIONWIDE TITLE CLEARING
LAUNCHES EXPRESSRETRIEVAL.COM ONLINE SERVICE

Palm Harbor, Florida – June 3, 2008. Nationwide Title Clearing, Inc. launches ExpressRetrieval.com, a revolutionary online service that allows mortgage industry professionals to place orders for vital research and retrieval of recorded real estate documents nationwide. What makes the ExpressRetrieval.com online service unique is the ability for users to order hard-to-find documents for any recording jurisdiction nationwide, one at a time or in bulk, and for a reasonable and predictable rate.

Nationwide Title Clearing previously released its successful Express Retrieval service in the spring of 2006. ExpressRetrieval.com is the next evolution of this service and is now available online to the general public nationwide. This revolutionary online service covers all US recording jurisdictions nationwide (approximately 3500 different jurisdictions) for ordering both certified copies and regular copies of documents, and has no minimum volume requirements. Typically, similar online services are restricted to only the limited number of recording jurisdictions that offer public records online and do not offer an easy online ordering system for clerk certified copies.

Nationwide Title Clearing representative and Senior Vice President, Jeremy Pomerantz, had this to say about the product, "Nationwide Title Clearing opened its doors to the industry with our comprehensive Document Retrieval services in 1992. As part of our continual commitment to provide services that are relevant to the industry, we have worked diligently to develop and launch ExpressRetrieval.com as a new online service. We have developed this service for our clients and to open the door for new market segments that previously had no clear avenue to easily order documents. We welcome all mortgage industry professionals to use the site to help lower their internal costs and to be able to provide a better experience for their clients."

The extensive search methods of the ExpressRetrieval.com service include combinations of public and private subscription based database and image repository resources, phone calls to the county as well as sending a person to physically go to the recording office, if needed. All of this is offered at a predictable cost that is provided up-front in the ordering process. Online users simply select the documents they need from a large list of document types and select whether they need regular copies (via image or paper) or clerk certified copies. ExpressRetrieval.com online service features include the ability to track the order progress, view the history of all orders placed and access images of all documents retrieved.
